Before Ordering

Please verify your pump model and original seal size before ordering. Many pump seals look similar but are not interchangeable. Orders are fulfilled by the part number purchased, not by photo appearance.

When Should Plunger Seals Be Replaced?

- Water leaking between pump head and crankcase
- Pump pressure drops or surges
- Visible wear, cracking, or swelling on old seals
- Routine pump rebuild service

Installation Tip

Inspect plungers before installing new seals. A scratched, cracked, or worn ceramic plunger can quickly damage new seals. Replace damaged plungers before completing the pump rebuild.
