Machine came back because it was tearing up belts. A long history of trying to fix this unit in the field - put on new tensioner, made multiple adjustments to try to line up pulleys but no luck as still tearing up belts. Currently it still needs work in this area.
Other than that the machine looks in good shape.
1255.3 hours on the hour meter. It is believed that the original location this was installed was too hot for such an aggressive pressure washer and this was leading to a revolving door of tearing up the belts. Recommended fix to install a cooling fan inside of cabinet to keep belts cool and double check belt alignment.
