Drieaz F287 Rescue Mat System AC582
Rescue Mat System
Dry hardwoods from above (top)

The Rescue Mat System uses the power of a high-pressure blower like the DriForce to vacuum water vapor right through the surface of the floor. Two different sizes make it easy to custom fit your Rescue Mat System to any floor layout.

Rescue Mat Panel Kit
Expand your hardwood floor rescue system with additional panels

Panel kit includes four 46 × 30 inch mats and two 23 × 30 inch mats.

Set up easily and work fast. Two sizes of mats allow for multiple configurations and maximum flexibility, and installation is fast and easy with just one hose connection per mat. Gasket edges provide a powerful seal and eliminate the need for taping down mats.

Use as part of a drying team. Connect the Rescue Mat System to the Flood King or a truckmount extractor to remove standing water or use with the AirWolf for the fastest hardwood drying.

With the increasing use of wood floors in current home construction and remodels, there are many opportunities for restoration contractors to help their customers avoid replacement or major refinishing after a leak or flood event. We have a full complement of specialty products including the AirWolf and WolfPack as well as the DriForce and Rescue Mat drying systems. Combine these products with the ability to duct warm, dry air from our LGR 7000Xli or new Revolution LGR and you will be amazed at how much wood flooring you can save.

A few tips . . .

When it comes to drying wood floors, patience and persistence pays off. A little patience can make all the difference between saving a wood floor and having to demolish it. When solid hardwood flooring is exposed to water, only the unfinished underside will absorb water. As the wood absorbs moisture, the bottom expands more than the finish-protected top, causing cupping. When this cupping appears during the drying process, it may cause some concern for the property owner. Be patient. The cupping will go away.

If your drying system is properly set up, regular monitoring will show that the moisture content (MC) is trending downward. Continue drying until the MC reaches the drying goal (or dry standard) and the cupping is gone. Next clean the floor, and for an added touch, apply a coat of polyurethane. In most cases, you won't even need to do a prep sanding.

Remember:

You can restore hardwood flooring when it is exposed to Category 1 water.
The longer the floor is wet, the longer it will take to dry.
Be patient! The drying process is done when both the MC returns to normal and the floor lays flat.
