Q&A:
Question: Will the machine operate on a customer's electric dryer plug?
Answer: Yes.

Question: How large of a generator would I need to have to run this?
Answer: Any 389 cc (11 hp) generator will work. Example below BE6500ER. Please make sure you properly ground your generator. See notes on how to bond your generator to the ground.

Question: What is involved in switching between using one power cord to two cords, and then to use both vacuum motors?
Answer: Nothing! We have a check valve installed on one of the vacuum stacks. This way if you are only using one power cord it shuts off the stack you are not using to prevent air from sucking backwards through the system. Because each power cord will operate on 15 am breakers, it plugs in everywhere. No need to pre-qualify if the outlet is a 20 amp breaker.

Question: Does the machine include the bubble top lid or the flat lid?
Answer: The flat lid. The bubble top lid are some photos that carried over from the older 20 gallon model. All the 26 gallon machines have flat lids with a twist and lock latch.

One Year Warranty Included.

Also available in 230 volts for $350 extra + a one month lead time.

Comparison pressure washer comparison notes for chart below:
CFM mean cubic feet per minute that passes through the vacuum at zero inches of lift at sea level (Unrestricted)
Inches of lift means: how height can you suck a 1" diameter column of water straight up in the air above seal level when the CFM reaches zero. (Complete occlusion)
Inches of HG (mercury): Mercury is the heaviest liquid metal on Earth so this liquid is not picked up near as high as water.
1 inches of HG = 13.6087 inches of water lift
Vacuum units: Formula Max CFM (at zero inches of lift) X (Times) Max inches of lift (at zero CFM)
Amp draw or HP (Horse Power): Watts divided by Volts equal amps. Amp draw is king. Machines that use more power just perform better.
If you find any miss information, please email us and will will correct this web page. Correction are not made based on phone calls, email only.
Some multiple cored electric vacuum require all power cords to be plugged in to work, others machine allow you to chose to use as much or little vacuum needed.

Summary and side notes:
Prices subject to change without notice.
I probably should have added an extra column that was vacuum units divided by dollars spent = performance per dollar or value per dollar
Examples
Goliath Quad 6.6 20170915 is 73,100 vacuum units divided by $2855 = 25.6 vacuum unit performance per dollar spent.
or
US Products Flood King 15,500 vacuum units divided by $2845 = 5.45 vacuum unit performance per dollar spent.
You can do the math on the rest of the units...
I could have added a column for the vacuum waste tank size but since they are all auto pump out it really does not mater.
Max CFM you can even suck through a 1.5" diameter hose 225 cfm
Max CFM you can suck through a 2" diameter hose is 450 cfm so this reduces the Sapphire 72-4500BB on single wand use.
Most customer find that they under buy the vacuum system after the purchase when it is too late. Water extraction from flooded building, pulling water out of carpet, basements, air duct cleaning, indoor tile cleaning, as well as being able to NOT relocate your rig are important topics to discuss. A strong vacuum system can always be turned down. A weak vacuum is something you are just stuck with. Turning your

Steambrite Supply

Clean Storm 20190115 Pressure Washing Water Recycling Kit Goliath Dual 6.6 Vacs 6.6 GPM Recycler Trailer Mount Package

pressure washer into a multi surface system is easy to do. Simply making a few changes on the pressure washer to that it will operate on a wider range of pressures and simply change the tool at the end of the hose and you no longer have to relay on just pressure washing income, but rather tile and grout cleaning, carpet cleaning, more...
Using machine that only operate on 20 amp breakers might also provide some challenges as some buildings are only wired with 15 amp breakers. 15 amp cords also operate on generators easier too.
It all ways surprises me how many customers will purchase a single vacuum motor vacuum system and the do not realize this will NOT operate a vacuum recovery 21" surface concrete surface spinner more than 25 ft from the cleaning tool. I just is not really possible to have the vacuum machine follow behind you while you are pressure washing. You just need to purchase a vacuum that operate 150 feet of 2" ID vacuum hose so the vacuum unit can stay stationary.
