The grey KIK key is reserved for the supervisor, who can grant access rights with it for the operator's key.
The KIK system offers substantially better security against erroneous operation.
Facility managers can set parameters such as travel speed, brush speed, motor output or cleaning dosage to suit the needs of the particular cleaning task.
An operator’s key carries out the pre-determined settings.
The operator only needs to insert the key into the machine.
As a result, only the required amount of energy and cleaning agent is used.
This system practically eliminates operating errors.
